ISSUED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR

THE REPUBLICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at the postoffice at Phoenix, Arizona as second class matter of the second class.

THE REPUBLICAN has its own special wire connecting its office direct with San Francisco and Chicago, and through these cities with all the great news centers of the world. Besides the Associated Press report it receives more special dispatches every day than any paper west of St. Louis, outside of San Francisco.

BULLOCK'S PROPOSITION.

In publishing Mr. Bullock's proposition as to a North and South railroad to the Board of Supervisors the other day, THE REPUBLICAN refrained from editorial comment for several reasons. Among others we thought we detected a certain insincerity in it and have waited for consideration, which has been duly given.

In the first place, one of his conditions was that the Yavapai subsidy be changed from a certain line named in the subsidy to another line named by Mr. Bullock. To this Yavapai County will never consent. Mr. Bullock states that for two winters he has sought to have this done through the Legislature, without success. There is no reason to anticipate better success this winter.

Again, we thought he protested too much and, although the signature of the Messrs. Seligman is very patent, THE REPUBLICAN could not see its necessity in this proposition.

In this connection the following from the Chicago Inter-Ocean of December 13, 1890, is very pertinent:

SUIT FOR $750,000.

THE MONTEREY AND MEXICAN GULF RAILROAD COMPANY THE DEFENDANT.

New York, December 12.—A complaint was filed today in the United States Circuit Court by the Trustees and Executors Securities Insurance Company of Great Britain and Ireland against the Monterey and Mexican Gulf Railroad Company for the recovery of $750,000 for breach of contract with interest from May 21, 1888. The railroad company was given a grant by the Mexican Government for the construction of a railroad from Monterey to Tampico, and subsequently for a second line from Monterey to Valparaiso, the lines to be exempt from taxation for twenty years. In 1888 the railroad mortgaged all its real and personal property to the Central Trust Company of New York, which agreed to issue bonds payable in gold, due November 1, 1893. The company completed the roads. The bonds were taken up by the foreign company, which also took a second mortgage, agreeing to advance $500,000. This money was to be paid December 1, 1892, with interest at 6 percent. It was secured by the first mortgage and other pledges. The railroad company failed in its contract with the plaintiff, hence the suit.

This is the Mexican railroad to which Mr. Bullock referred so boastfully in his proposition.

THE REPUBLICAN is informed that the franchise for this road was turned over to General Trevino, to whom it was originally granted by the Mexican government, to a firm of contractors well known in this vicinity, who made arrangements with the New York Railway Supply company, 22 Wall street, New York City, and Mr. Bullock, as partners, for building and owning the road, but by some hocus pocus these gentlemen soon found themselves in the soup, and Bullock's party in full possession. And by the way it may be mentioned that 22 Wall Street is the address of Maricopa County's self-styled attorney, Mr. Kibbe.

Now it seems they have hocus pocused the Englishmen too. No, thank you, Maricopa County does not want any hocus pocus for its share. It wants a North and South railroad and wants it badly, but all promises to that end must be made in good faith.

FARMERS should remember that a reputation for high quality is an essential prerequisite to high prices for any of the products of the vineyard or orchard. A bad carload of raisins is sufficient to down the entire pack of the year in the eyes of the mercantile trade and a uniformity of high-class goods and neat packing will soon attract a swarm of buyers for crops that are not as yet picked. In short, it is the difference between success and failure. In view of the injury that might be done to Arizona products by inferior shipments, would it not be well for the Fruit Growers' Association to appoint some competent person from its membership to inspect its every shipment of fruit, dried or green, and to attach to each box a stamp designating its quality? Some expense would attach to this plan, but it would prove profitable in the end and lead to a steady call for the goods that bear a stamp known to be reliable.

The lapse of the Tombstone Epitaph is an event that is deeply to be regretted. For many years since the decadence of the ancient Nugget, the Epitaph has been a power for good in its community, an inscription that has ever set forth in no mean terms the excellent attributes of its Tombstone. And, especially, it is to be regretted, for the memory of the staunch and faithful work it has done for the righteous cause of Republicanism. May it speedily see a resurrection.

COLORADO'S mineral exhibit at the World's Fair will, if well arranged plans be consummated, be placed in a vast underground palace, 500 feet deep, from the rooms of which will radiate driftings, inclines, etc., all arranged to show clearly the practical workings of large mines. It might be that Arizona might be granted a niche in this modern Allard's Cave.

THERE should be a move inaugurated at once to secure for next season in the neighborhood of Phoenix an establishment for curing and canning the next year's product of the valley orchards.

By yesterday's telegrams readers of THE REPUBLICAN were informed of the consummation of a deal whereby the Mormon Church comes into possession of a vast area of land in northern Mexico, the dispatch adding that the land is to be settled by 10,000 people from Utah. There, on the banks of the Yaqui River, it is designed to found a new Canaan, expressly according to the peculiar ideas of the Latter Day Saints. Away from the prying eyes of those most uncomfortable United States Marshals, in a land where their language and their extensive domain will alike contribute to that isolation the Church so desires, the holy revelations and covenants can be observed in their entirety and the nearest approach possible made to a terrestrial heaven—according to Mormon ideas. But would it not be better, if a suggestion would not be deemed discourteous, to sail away, retracing the track of Mormon, Moroni, et al, westward across the Pacific Ocean till one of those lovely South Sea islands be reached, and to found thereon the kingdom that is governed by ecclesiastical laws too pure to apply to the generality of mankind? Thus would the "withdrawal from the world" be accomplished and absolute quietude secured, even in the most mysterious operations of the Endowment House.

When the San Carlos coal fields opened for location and development, Globe would, under the stimulus given by a cheapening of the coke supply about 70 per cent, soon spring into a town of 5000 people, supported by two scores of smelting stacks. And the base ore of the Territory would be worked at home and contribute to local industry in place of being shipped, at high rates of freight, to New Mexico and Colorado for reduction. As so much is dependent upon turning the coal fields over to the available domain, it is to be wondered at that no more vigorous efforts have been made to that end.

At the ceremonies of the laying of the cornerstone of the new Insane Asylum at San Bernardino, Cal., last week Colonel Stephenson, of Stephenson's Regiment, the first Masonic Grand Master of the State, aged 93 years, and George Lord, another old Mason, aged 91, were present and marched in the procession.

Sitting Bull's ghost is infinitely preferable to Sitting Bull in material shape.

DANIEL N. HUNSAKER.

An Eulogium Upon the Deceased Editor from His Former Home.

From the San Diegoan.

Daniel N. Hunsaker, a younger and only brother of Hon. W. J. Hunsaker, died at the residence of the latter last night at eleven o'clock. The illness which carried him away was of short duration, and the announcement of his death, still come as a surprise and shock to his friends here, and to his associates and aged parents in Arizona, where he has been living the past several years. His death was the result of a lingering fever contracted while at his home in Wilcox, A. T. He recovered somewhat from the fever, but did not grow strong, and two weeks since came to San Diego for the benefit of the sea air, which he and his friends hoped would entirely restore him. The expected strength did not return, however, and he continued to grow worse until his death occurred, as stated, last night.

The newer residents of San Diego may not know Dan Hunsaker, but the young men of the city who passed their earlier days here knew him and loved him, for as boy and man he possessed qualities which closely attached him to his friends. He came to San Diego with his father, mother, brother Will, and sister in 1893. He attended the public schools, and with Will, later took a course at the San Diego Academy, of which Miss S. M. Gunn, now Mrs. Major J. J. was principal. As Sheriff, the father assumed an active position in the affairs of the county. Dan was an earnest and bright scholar, and by his aptness not only acquired a learning from books, but became familiar with public affairs. While yet quite young he felt a desire to work his way into the newspaper business, and as the best means thereto applied to the managers of the San Diego World—of which the San Diego is the lineal descendant—for a place to learn the trade of printer.

While engaged in this work, however, symptoms of weak lungs began to manifest themselves, and on the advice of physician and parents he left the city to obtain the benefits of the mountain air at Ballena.

After a rest of several weeks he came back and later applied to Colonel Gunn, who was then publisher of the Union, for a position on that paper. The place was obtained, and within a few weeks he was promoted to the foremanship of the office. Dan here tried his hand at writing, and subsequently was frequently under entire charge of the paper during the absence of the editor on business trips to San Francisco or elsewhere.

In 1885 Dan left the paper to go to Arizona and join his father, who had and still has an extensive stock ranch in the Chiricahua mountains. He remained on the ranch for a time, but the old inclination for newspaper work returned to him and he purchased the Southwestern Stockman, published at Wilcox, and has made that a most valuable and profitable property. Two months ago he was here on a visit, and went back in his usual health, but soon caught a cold, which in turn brought on a fever that resulted in his death, as stated.

At the time of his death he was 33 years of age. Those who were acquainted with him knew him to be modest, but manly and courageous, and had been gifted with a strong constitution there was no position to which he might not have attained. An instance of his courage was shown during the Apache raid in Arizona, when he mounted a horse and made his way through the Indian-infested mountains alone to the assistance of his parents, arriving there twenty-four hours before the troops.

The father and mother have been telegraphed for and are expected to be here to attend the funeral, which will be held from the residence of Hon. W. J. Hunsaker on Sunday.

Miss Ida Laycock, teacher of a district school near Longmont, Colo., was fatally stabbed Saturday by one of her pupils, Bert Meyers, because she tried to discipline him.

A disaster has occurred at Todua, Argentine Republic, where a canal burst its embankments and destroyed hundreds of houses. Many lives were lost.
